Wheeling people in general ought to be proud of the Opera House orchestra. It would redound much to her credit if the community could maintain the year 'round such a musical organization as that which last night rendered the following programme in the Opera House, the occasion being the annual

The orchestra was the largest home organization which ever rendered a programme. It is a matter for congratulation, too, for all lovers of music, that nearly all of the special assistants on this occasion were representatives of home talent. Several Wheeling favorities from Pattsburgh were enrolled, but never before were so many Wheeling nusicians in the organization for one of these special occasions. The orchestra was made up as follows:

Mr. Grimm's flute sole and Alfred Spell's mastery of the violin also provoked prolonged and deserved applause. The two selections for string instruments only were especially delicate, and rendered with a degree of perfection which would be a credit to any musicians in the land.

ADVANCED GROUND TAKEN By the Rev. Dr. Bickley on the Subject of Sanday Recreation. Rather a sensation was created by the remarks of Rev. Dr. Bickley at the service Sunday night. In speaking of the large numbers of people absenting thomselves from church service and finding amusement and pastime in the ball game, steamboat excursion and other forms of Sabbath desecration, said that the attitude of the Master was, if the people would not come to the gos-

the people would not come to the gespel, take it out to where they are, and in highways and hedges, lanes and alleys, on plain and hillside, on lake and river. Christ tried to reach them.

The doctor suid the only reason that the church objected to the dance, the theatre and card playing, was because they were proved to lead to the largest evils, and corruption of the heart. If the time would ever come when they could be conducted without the evils of the present surrounding them, them could be conducted without the evils of the present surrounding them, then the church would have not an objection to offer. He went farther, and spoke of the sorrow with which he viewed the desceration of this beautiful Sabbath, specially of the thousands who went to the ball game Sunday and encouraged the profanation of the day. At least one day in the week should be kept for the largest elevation to higher, nobler.

the prefanation of the day. At least one day in the week should be kept for the largest elevation to higher, nobler, lives. He, however, did not know but that, after all, if it could be brought about, if the ball game could be freed from the many evils surrounding it and connected with it, and if it could be preserved from the trail of the serpent; if it maintained the highest Christian integrity in its operations, it would not be so wrong to allow a Sunday afterneon to be spent in recreation of that sort, while the other part of the day was given to the truest development in spiritual matters. He would rather by far see the young men out in the fields than in saloons or brothels.

He did not know but what it was after all somewhat religious for a poor, hard working man to gather his pentiup family and take them out into God's glorious out of doors for a few hours on Sunday afterneon, where they could enjoy sunshine, sweet flowers and the subtle influences of nature, providing corresponding care were taken to lead them in the ways of the highest issues of higher life. He took the ground that that man was using diligence in keeping his own heart as well as those resting on his heart, so that there might be some satisfactory issues of life to them also.

He also advocated the largest freedom

also.

He also advocated the largest freedom

He also advocated the largest freedom and provision in the churches of the land; that there be provided an open church every day and night in the week, having what he termed club rooms for the young men and ladies, containing every allowable feature of entertainment, culture and sociability. He rather startled some of the more conservative when he referred to Sunday excursions, and said that the church and Christian people of the land should show themselves in deepest practical sympathy with the unfortunate of the earth, and be like the Christ who provided for the multitudes he found outside the cities. He would have the church stop discussing the intensely important and interesting question of "divorcement of masses from the church," and get down to solid practical doing and show itself ready to undo whatever wrong impressions have brought this shout. He would practical doing and show itself ready to undo whatever wrong impressions have brought this about. He would provide resorts and parks most attrac-tive at seaside and lakeside and hillton, to which people might go with their families, and get God's good fresh air, as well as the very best that might be provided of Christian speaking and music; and that there was best that might be provided of Christian speaking and music; and that there was not much difference after all between the collections and offering; and subscriptions in the churches to what might be received from individuals for current expenses of these Christian enterprises, established with every Christian safegnard. He would make the beautiful steamer a floating chappel, and while these poor families would be receiving the delights of a trip on Sunday, they would be surrounded by the very they would be surrounded by the ver-they would be surrounded by the very best sacred influences of song and sermon from the very best talent procurable, the Christian people to direct the excursion, which is not protected today by Christian influences, but rather in the hands of the devil.

The church taking this, which to many minds is outside her realm, would show herself in touch and in the lead to attract the masses to her heart. would show herself in touch and in the lead to attract the masses to her heart and elevate them toward the Christ, who is touched more with broken, contrite, humble hearts than sacriice, and who revealed the highest possible importance of reaching humanity on its own ground to save it from degenerating evils. He maintained that "rightness of heart" and not "sincerity of religious formula" was the attitude of the Lord Jesus Christ toward man, and of man towards man, and that the one the Lord Jesus Christ toward man, and of man towards man, and that the one great work of the church of the living God was to attract men to the noblest and most perfect of all lives, that of acceptance of the Christ by whatever means.

The doctor was speaking on the "Secret of Life" from the text, "Keep thy heart with all diligence, for out of it are the issues of life," and put it out as a question, whether or not the Christian people would not be doing a grand noble work by these advance means, in helping thousands of men and women to keep their hearts with unce earnest and devouted diligence, thereby intensitying the nobler issues of life and also making them feel that some man does care for their souls.

The average local church has had in.

care for their souls.

The average local church has had in The average local church has had in it much of conservative selishness and too little of the real Christ spirit. It has been forgetting to pian for the struggling fallen humanity for whom the cospel was pre-eminently revealed and the kingdom of Christ established. Too much of the work has been expended in a spirit of worldr ambition and self advancement instead of the religiosecular club, instead of the God and self advancement instead of the re-ligio-secular club, instead of the God provided means with largest attractive-ness and pleasure provided in the Christ and his gospel truth.

The power of the church has been weakened just as it has been withdrawn from its sympathetic touch with the masses of humanity it ought to get back its sacred power and influence by a revelation of largest Christily spirit of charity, brotherly kindness and ability charity, brotherly kindness and ability to adapt itself to the needs of the hour and day. But as long as the evils and degenerating tendencies exist and accompany these pastimes, the church and morality must utter their denunciations and warnings concerning them.

RECLIATION racks the system like a thumb-screw. It retreats before the power of Hood's Sarsaparills, which purifies the blood.

HINTS FOR THE SUMMER.

Try and keep cool.

Do not get excited.

Exertion is good-over exertion, injurious. Keep the blood cool, well circulated and enithy. Do not eat fat or heavy foods, but those that will nourish and not overheat. Don't eat unripe fruits or other unwholesome

Keep yourself clean, keep your home clean, and live in a clean neighborhood. If you feel heated, do not resort to key drinks, but take a little pure medicinal whiskey in feed

Remember that there is but one pure medici nal whiskey in the market and that is Duffy's Pure Malt, and that is the only kind that can safely be depended upon during het weather.

It may be that some people, possibly your drugglest or grocer, will tell you that there are other whiskeys "just as good." If you are wise you will not be decelved, but insist upon having that which is purest, best, and certain to do you good.

If you follow these common sense suggestions there is no reason why you are not, through the summer, free from colds, summer complaints and all the changes which surround us during this trying time of the year.
